

TASK:

You will have to write down a short text but you cannot rewrite it. Taking turns, each member of the group runs to the text and memorizes a fragment and then comes back and dictates it to their teammates. Each student can dictate only 1 sentence at a time. When you are finished, guess the title and the author of that piece. Then ask your teacher for answers.

Napoleon, with the dogs following him, now mounted on to the raised portion of the floor where Major had previously stood to deliver his speech. He announced that from now on the Sunday-morning Meetings would come to an end. They were unnecessary, he said, and wasted time. In future all questions relating to the working of the farm would be settled by a special committee of pigs, presided over by himself. These would meet in private and afterwards communicate their decisions to the others. The animals would still assemble on Sunday mornings to salute the flag, sing Beasts of England, and receive their orders for the week; but there would be no more debates.

[Excerpt from “Animal Farm” by George Orwell]